

Name: _____

What happens next?

A Meteor Shower

Kari yawned. The sky was dark, and the stars twinkled from high above her. She lay in the backyard, staring at them. It was past her bedtime, but Dad had agreed to let her stay up late. That was because tonight was a predicted meteor shower. Kari could hardly wait to see the amazing trails the meteors would leave across the sky. She would love to watch the blazing stardust as it streaks through space. The night was clear. There were no clouds in the sky, and the moon was only a crescent. Kari looked at her watch.

The weatherman on the radio said it would be around eleven o'clock at night. It was supposed to be a meteor shower. Would she get to see any meteors?

around eleven o'clock at night. It was supposed to be a meteor shower. Would she get to see any meteors?

What do you think happened?

PREVIEW
Gain complete access to the largest collection of worksheets in all subjects!

What makes you think that?

Members, please log in to download this worksheet.

Not a member? Please sign up to gain complete access.

www.mathworksheets4kids.com